Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Glendale Getting to Be Big League City Now

NEVER in the history of the world has there been so remarkable a development as in Southern California the past few years. And Glendale has shared in it to a pronounced degree.

Long Beach, with its shipbuilding during the war period and since then its oil development, has become a city of 100,000 inhabitants. Pasadena and other cities surrounding Glendale have also shown considerable growth. This growth has been steady and of a permanent nature. We haven't rows of buildings all cut from the same pattern. We have cosy homes with gardens and lawns, all artistic, beautiful and substantial.

* *

We have living in these homes a very wonderful people—people who own their own homes, are in love with their city and are willing and do work for its advancement. Their work for it and the boosting they give it is no doubt the reason for its growth. While considerable bickering goes on at times, it always ends in a friendly spirit and while one faction gains it is generally for the good of the community as a whole.

We are fast growing to big league class. These friendly bickerings will in time be a thing of the past. We won't have time to fight over trifles.

* * *

DURING the past few months Glendale's industrial growth has been extremely gratifying. Several plants employing workers which will total in the thousands have signified their intention of locating their factories here.

Heretofore our industrial growth had been retarded, in fact it was beginning to look as if we were destined to be a city of homes, whose owners had to go elsewhere to seek a living. Some people even went so far as to call Glendale the "sleeping porch" of Los Angeles. This condition of things is disappearing with the additions almost daily of new factories.

* * *

FURTHER impetus to this movement was given today with the announcement that a local realty concern had purchased 42 acres to subdivide and improve for industrial purposes.

The property in question lies just west and bordering on the Southern Pacific tracks, running about 1400 feet north of Broadway, the south limits being on a line with Broadway when it is cut through.

* * *

THE next thing in order will be a bridge over the Los Angeles river to give us entrance into Griffith park without having to go many miles to get there. The opening of this subdivision will help solve this matter, for the subdivision people will improve 1700 feet of the distance, leaving only 1000 feet more to be taken care of. This is a matter that should have the support of our city officials and the Chamber of Commerce. If they would use their influence now the bridge can be secured and Glendale will have ready access to one of the finest and second to the largest park in the United States. A park consisting of 3751 acres.

"LUCKY STRIKE" WRITER IS HERE

Capt. Cyril Turner, the aviator who spells "Lucky Strike" in the sky, is at home at the Glendale airport. Several days ago Capt. Turner broke a valve while in operation. The machine is being repaired by Aviator W. B. Kinner at the local airport, and it will be two weeks before the machine is again ready for aerial trips.

Capt. Turner put on some air stunts above the Glendale airport yesterday and he intends to repeat them next Sunday.

ONE THOUSAND PEOPLE ATTEND CEREMONIES AT GRAND VIEW CEMETARY

Take Part in the Ground Breaking Services, Marking Dedication of Crypt to Public Records in New $60,000 Mausoleum

ALL SAN FERNANDO VALLEY REPRESENTED

Rev. Thomas F. Allen of Burbank Gives Invocation; Dwight Stephenson Explains Resume of Idea of Preservation of the Dead

Visualizing Glendale as it will be fifty years hence, the historical records of this and surrounding cities which were deposited yesterday in a crypt that was dedicated and sealed during the ground-braeking ceremonies for the new Grand View mausoleum, these papers and photographs will prove to be of incalculable value when this crypt will be opened in 1973 with impressive ceremonies.

The ceremonies of breaking ground for the Grand View mausoleum took place at 4 o'clock yesterday, Sunday, afternoon, June 10, in the presence of over 1000 residents from Glendale, Burbank, Eagle Rock and surrounding cities, and opened with community singing by the audience. Rev. Thomas F. Allen of Burbank gave the invocation. This was followed by an address on "Mausoleum Idea" by Dwight W. Stephenson of Glendale, who gave a resume of the history of the various forms of interment. Relative to earth interment he said in part: "In this country, partly because there are few places of large population, and partly because it is an early and general tendency to use cemeteries rather than churches and the grounds adjacent to them, the evils of earth burial did not manifest themselves so soon or in so marked a manner as in the old world. But, there were instances enough to convince the most incredulous that a radical change must be made. No such novel mode as casting the dead into the sea will generally be adopted. Plainly also, the mode of the Parsees, grounded as it is in ancient, if not original use—to give the dead to beasts and birds—will not become universal. And, plainly also, cremation will not be welcome to many, free as it is from objection on the source of public health, if a method equally sanitary, and at the same time satisfactory to a reverent and tender sentiment, can be devised. Apart from the modes that have just been named, there are no others but earth burial and entombment. If the demands of affection and sanitation are both to be met, entombment is to do it or it cannot be done."

Mr. Stephenson's address was followed by a vocal duet by Gladys Fischer and Eloise Kirkpatrick. Mrs. Hallie M. Fillbach read a poem. A very interesting address was given by Rev. Thomas E. Stephenson, master of ceremonies. Mayor James C. Crawford of Burbank acted as receiver of historical records, which included those of the city of Glendale, city of Burbank, the Grand View school, which was signed by all of the pupils of the school and also the principal; also records of the Central avenue and Doran street schools; the Tuesday Afternoon club, which was represented by Mrs. Daniel Campbell; the chambers of commerce and Kiwanis clubs of Glendale, Burbank, Lankershim, VanNuys, and San Fernando, and other organizations and individuals, as well as the local newspapers.

The turning of the consecrated soil by Rev. Thomas E. Allen, Rev. Leslie G. Parker, Rev. Thos. E. Stevenson and W. A. Blanchard, followed next, during which the Usona male quartet of Burbank, the members of which are Julius H. Phillips, Charles Vincent Clay, Charles L. Munro, Charles H. Russell and F. Stillwell Moore, accompanist, rendered the selection, "Lead Kindly Light."

The committee in charge of arranging the program included Rev. Thomas F. Allen, Rev. Ernest A Main and Rev. Leslie G. Parker.

MILO SHERRICK LOSES HIS VALUABLE VIOLIN

A valuable violin belonging to Milo Sherrick of 907 East Lomita was stolen from the Glendale high school between Saturday and Sunday nights, according to the police department. The police are now looking for the missing article.

SENIOR CLASS TO CEASE WORK ON FRIDAY

Principal Moyse to Leave Next Week for Commencement

Principal Moyse announces that all strictly senior work will close Friday of the present week leaving next week free for commencement affairs.

Regular class work for the under-graduates will close Wednesday of next week and on the Friday following students will return to school in the morning and report to their roll rooms where they will receive report cards.

From incoming students in the intermediate schools and from students now in attendance on the school who expect to continue next year, cards indicating the program they wish to follow have been filed and during the summer it is probable the office will be able to work out individual programs for each B9 student. It is possible the work will be carried still further so that when school opens in the fall students will receive programs which will enable them to go right to work.

Just where school will open cannot yet be determined. The contractor has not pledged himself to have it ready before the 15th and it may be considered advisable to delay occupancy until floors, paint and all details of interior finishing have had time to harden.

The making of programs this summer will be complicated by this matter and also by the fact that the school day can be shortened and will probably not begin before 8:45 a. m. while it may close at 3:30 instead of 5:15 as now.

ELKS' NEW SONG RIDES THE RADIO THIS EVENING

Glendale listeners in on the radio should be on the watch at 9:15 this evening for the number, "Under the Spreading Antlers," an elk song composed by Code Morgan of Kenneth road, this city, which is to be broadcasted by the Hollywood Californians at the hour named.

It is likely to carry the fame of Glendale to the great national convention of Elks to be held at Atlanta, July 8 to 15, as it will be an outstanding feature of the program.

Mr. Morgan is a professional musician, singer, composer and publisher, with an office on South Broadway, Los Angeles. He is comparatively new in Glendale and came here from San Francisco. Already he has become a booster for our city and the south in general.

INDUSTRIAL SUBDIVISION ANNOUNCED

Extension of Broadway to Be Improved for Factory Use

$50,000 EXPENDITURES

Local Syndicate to Develop Old Peverley Property

A local syndicate consisting of W. L. Tracy, Harry G. MacBain, T. W. Watson, W. H. Campbell and Harry E. Hall, has purchased the Peverley property at West Glendale, consisting of 42 acres, and will subdivide and improve for industrial purposes.

An expenditure of about $50,000 is expected to be spent for grading, laying out streets, installing water system and railroad drill tracks. It is to be subdivided into lots of 50 by about 250 feet. There will be about 100 lots of this size. It is probable that the sites will all be larger than the individual lots.

The property lies just west of and bordering on the Southern Pacific tracks, north of the westerly extension of Broadway, with about 1400 feet frontage on the railroad. Two drill tracks will be extended through the property each about 1700 feet in length, dividing it into four rows of industrial sites, each having its own private switch. There will be streets extended around the property and one through the middle, giving each industrial site street frontage as well. Broadway will be extended along the south line of the property on a straight line with Broadway in Glendale, east of the San Fernando road. There is about 2700 feet of street to open and improve to connect Broadway at San Fernando road with Riverside drive just west of the river, at Griffith park. The opening and improving of this industrial tract will take care of 1700 feet of this. It is to be hoped that some means may be found to improve the additional 1000 feet, which will include a bridge across the Los Angeles river. This will give Glendale and those portions of Los Angeles lying east of Glendale as well as Pasadena and the valleys north of Glendale a direct route to Griffith Park and a connection with the new trunk line to Los Angeles which that city is now building along the west side of the Los Angeles river. This boulevard will be called Riverside Drive, and is designed to take care of a large portion of the traffic to Los Angeles, thus relieving the congestion on the San Fernando road.

This industrial subdivision means a great deal more to the city of Glendale than any residential subdivision could possibly mean, in as much as it lies within 1½ miles of the business center and affords sites for factories that will engage many thousands of high class employees.

This project was consummated through the agency of T. W. Watson company. This firm will have charge of the development and placing of the tract on the market. The co-operation of all other realtors in Glendale will be engaged in securing factories to be located on this tract.

TWO DEAD FOUR HURT IN MOTORS

Emanual Garside and Jas. Ponsford Meet Death at Grand View

CAR TURNS OVER

Women Tourists and Local Citizens Come to Grief

Two people are dead and four are injured as a result of automobile accidents in Glendale during the week end. Fmanuel Garside, 45, a bricklayer of 606½ East Fifth street, Los Angeles, whose wife and family are living in Albine, Texas, and James Ponsford, 43, bricklaver, also of Los Angeles, are dead as a result of an accident which occurred at 6 o'clock Saturday night at the corner of Kenneth and Grand View.

Garside died as he was being taken to a local hospital, and Ponsford died at 12:45 o'clock Sunday morning. The car in which the men were riding, it is understood, was unable to make the turn. it hit the curbing and turned completely over, pinning the men beneath. The crowd that gathered immediately after the smashup, assisted in removing the bodies.

Shortly after the accident officers arrived. At that time it was thought that Ponsford was dead, and in an effort to save the life of Garside he was put in the police car and hurried to the hospital, but he died before reaching the sanitarium.

The police car then hurried back to the scene of the smashup. By the time it arrived Ponsford had partially regained consciousness. He was hurried to the hospital where a fight was made to save him.

The accident was witnessed by Clarence B. Allen of 2210 Ewing street, Edendale, and R. C. McMannus of 2167 Duane street, Edendale, who stated, according to the police, that the men were drunk at the time of the accident. Upon searching the machine, the police records state, Officer Armer found two pint bottles of whiskey.

The bodies of these men are now at the Kiefer & Eyerick Undertaking parlors on East Broadway. The body of Garside will be shipped back to Albine for interment.

Mrs. Mary Turner, 449 North Vergil street, Los Angeles, and Miss Della Herron, Reedley, California, were injured at 7 o'clock Sunday night when machines driven by D. A. Herron and H. R. Bybee, driver for the Occidental Stage company, came together, the accident occurring at the corner of San Fernando and Magnolia. The injured women were taken to the Glendale sanitarium by Officer Epps, and were later removed to their homes.

Walter E. Roach, 1108 East Monterey, was hurt in an accident that occurred at the corner of Lexington and Isabel Sunday afternoon. He was given aid by Dan Knuckles, after which he was taken to his home. The cars were piloted by Mr. Roach and Charles A. Flagg, of Pacific avenue.

In an accident that occurred near La Canada at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Mrs. W. H. Selleck of School street, La Canada, was slightly injured. First aid was given by John Robert White, after which Mrs. Selleck was taken to her home. The care were driven by Mrs. Selleck and James E. Eckles of 328 North Orange.

LEGION INDOOR TEAM TO PLAY AT HIGH

The Glendale American Legion indoor baseball team will play its first league game tonight at the high school grounds, under the Community Service schedule, when it will meet the team from the night school. There will also be a game between the Newton Electric company and Jesse Smith's Ford agency. The time set for the games is 7:30.

CHEVROLET IS REAL FISHERMAN'S CAR SAYS C. L. SMITH

C. L. Smith, Glendale's leading angler, made a wonderful trip to Arrowhead Lake Sunday. The jaunt to the lake was made in three and a half hours in the latest model Chevrolet coupe and only eight gallons of gasoline were consumed during the return trip of 152 miles. No water was put into the radiator on the trip.

"That's going some," said C. L. this morning. "That little coupe played around those grades in grand shape. The way it behaved was a revelation to all who saw the car in action."

CONTEST WINNERS TO BE ANNOUNCED TUESDAY'S PRESS

The work of completing the count in the Consumers' Contest, which has been conducted by the Glendale Daily Press and the manufacturers of many high class products, was completed today, and the winners will be announced in tomorrow's Glendale Daily Press.

The contest has been an interesting one and demonstrated thoroughly the wonderful pulling power the Press exerts in the advertising field. Some surprises will be given in the announcement. Watch for i tomorrow.

INTER-CITY PROGRAM IS BIG SUCCESS

Long Beach Band Puts on Splendid Entertainment

SUPT. DUREE SPEAKS

Value of Community Recreation Is Subject of Discussion

Popularity of inter-community programs, which were inaugurated in Glendale a few weeks ago under the direction of Community Service, is increasing as evidenced by the large crowd which turned out Saturday night to enjoy the splendid program put on by the Long Beach band, under the direction of S. F. DuRee, superintendent of the department of public recreation of the city of Long Beach.

The thirty-piece band arrived in a special P. E. car from the beach city at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night and was escorted to the high school. Mr. DuRee gave a fine talk on "Community Recreation and Its Value to the City," emphasizing the responsibility of the municipal government in providing community recreation in the way of community centers, playgrounds and year-round recreation programs. He complimented Glendale on the movement under way here to secure the high school grounds and buildings for a community center. Mr. DuRee also told of an election to be held in Long Beach this week for the voting of $800,000 for the purchase of 300 acres of land for a new park.

Mr. DuRee introduced L. D. Frey who conducted the audience in community singing. Mr. Frey proved to be one of the most enthusiastic and entertaining song leaders to visit Glendale and the crowd responded in fine voice. The evening's program opened and closed with excellent numbers by the Long Beach band, which was very much appreciated. The inter-community programs, which is a part of the Community Service plan for stimulating interest in music, also does much to advertise the various cities who are co-operating in this movement.

A. L. Baird, chairman music of Glendale Community Service, was present and gave a short talk of greeting to the visiting musicians. Following the program the members of the band and visitors from Long Beach adjourned to the high school cafeteria, where light refreshments were served under the direction of Dr. Jessie Russell.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS OF THE WHITE COAL

Field Superintendent of the Southern California Edison Co., Speaks

Members of the Glendale Kiwanis Club learned a number of interesting and surprising facts about the Southern California Edison company at the meeting held Friday at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, when W. S. Blossom, field superintendent of the company, gave an illustrated lecture on "The Romance of Electricity in Central and Southern California."

The surprising growth of Southern California population, Mr. Blossom stated, makes it necessary that the Edison company spend $375,00,000 in the next ten years in order to meet the demand for "white coal." This sum is 115,000,000 in excess of the cost of the Panama canal.

A large portion of this amount is to be spent in tunneling under aKiser ridge, known as the Florence tunnel. Cut out of solid rock it costs $1,000,000 a mile to complete the Florence tunnel, and work

VAN NUYS WALLOPS GLENDALE

Departs With Victory Before 800 Fans on Indians' Park

LOCALS LACK PUNCH

Visitors Get Away From Heidler and Harris

Glendale loses to Van Nuys—7 to 4.

Before a record crowd of about 800 fans the Glendale outfit went down to defeat at the hands of the winter season champs. They came here to avenge the bad beating the locals handed them at Van Nuys and made a pretty good job of it. The Glendale team with all the breaks against them, put up a good fighting game till the last man was out, but lacked the punch when men were on bases. The bases were filled two or three times but hits were not in the making at the critical moments. "Slim" Harris started on the mound for Glendale, but the visitors got to him in the third inning and Walt Heidler finished. He held them pretty fair, except in the sixth inning, when the visitors had three on bases. Roundtree, the right fielder for Van Nuys, made a foozy 2-base hit over the third sack, scoring all three on bases. The final score was 7 to 4.

Frank Acosta, the local star 3rd sacker, was the batting feature for Glendale. He knocked out a hard hit home-run but as luck would have it not a man was on base at the time. He also connected for two neat singles in four trips to the plate.

Glendale has still a chance to regain first place providing they win all four of the remaining games, and Manager Walt says they's going to do it.

Next Sunday Glendale travels to Zelzah to take on the cellar entry, and let's all hope they beat them.

BIGGEST MONDAY SHOPPING

Glendale Press Readers Begin Third Week of Visiting Shops

START IN EARLY

Reports Indicate Record Day of Visit to Stores

The Monday shopping campaign is going in for its third success today.

Up to noon, according to early reports, all indications pointed to a Monday shopping day far surpassing the two previous Mondays in results, since the beginning of the Glendale merchants plus Glendale Daily Press campaign for better buying and more of it.

With the weather conducive of shopping, many shoppers were on the streets at an early hour today, and it was evident that something unusual in the way of inducements was being offered.

Upon investigation the sales made at the various stores, it was found that a steady stream of buyers, bargain seekers and those lured to the stores of the town through a desire just to see what might be offered here—all conspired to keep the salespeople busy.

In some cases, the report came that buyers had started their invasion Saturday night, a number of sales in advertised goods being recorded. In all cases results are reported to be gratifying, in many cases far in excess of expectations.

The Monday shopping campaign, when it has become a matter of historical record with the people of Glendale, will present a story of triumph for the community, a story of the merchants offering the thing the Glendalian wants, and of the Glendalians being able to find what he wants with the least effort.

First, last and always, the Monday shopping campaign is one of service. Everyone participating reaps the benefit and, above all, this campaign means a closer alliance between the buying and selling public, a firmer understanding of the needs and wants of the community, which will enable the merchant to render the utmost support to the merchants.

These and many other points are becoming clear in the minds of the merchants who have thrown themselves into this campaign with a zest. They are also becoming clear in the minds of the buyers, who are congratulating the merchants of this co-operative move, and giving the assurance of their approval through consistent patronage.

Already the Monday shopping idea has become a habit with a large number. They have learned that the Saturday issue of the Press is worth the interest on their bank account, in some instances, for the money-saving offers contained in the Saturday Shopping News section.

It is in fact, a guide to the standard stores of the town and represents truth in advertising that makes every offer a safe venture, value for value, the faith of the buyer reciprocated by the appreciation of the merchant, told in values.

SUPREME COURT RULES AGAINST KANSAS COURT

Wolfe Packing Co. Challenge Sustained in Wage Dispute

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The challenge of the Kansas court of industrial relations made by the Charles Wolf Packing company of Topeka of the allied packers was sustained by the supreme court today on the grounds that the business company was not clothed with such a public interest as to give the state the authority to regulate the wages paid by the company.

The power of a state to prevent strikes in essential industries by creating a court or commission with jurisdiction to adjust labor troubles was challenged in the supreme court by the Charles Wolff Packing company of Topeka, a subsidiary of the Allied Packers, in a case against the court of industrial relations of Kansas.

The court is the first of its kind. Once before its life seemed threatened when Alexander Howatt, a labor leader, refused to appear before it while it had under consideration an impending strike in the coal fields of Kansas. A controversy over the constiutionality of the law was avoided at that time when Howatt was held in contempt by a regularly constituted judicial court for refusal to obey an injunction which it had issued. The supreme court held his commitment valid, but did not pass upon the jurisdiction of the industrial relations court.

Kansas sought in creating the court to solve the problem of industrial unrest and relieve itself from the disastrous consequences so often attending labor strikes. The law provided that the tribunal should arbitrate differences between employer and employe before a suspension of industry. The state described the purpose of the law to be the continuity and efficiency of operation in such industries as supply the necessaries of life, the preservation of the public peace, health and welfare and the prevention of economic waste. It did not attempt to regulate or control all industrial disputes, but only those affecting its food and fuel supply, and the manufacture of its clothing. Even in those indusrties the court was expected to act only in times of emergency.

Since congress in the packers and stockyards act assumed jurisdiction over all interstate phases of the packing industry, Kansas contended that it remained for the states to regulate that part of the industry relating to hours of labor, wages and working conditions. The government during the world war had emphasized the importance of continuous and efficient operation of the packing industry, the state pointed out, by the appointment of Federal Judge Samuel Alschuler as administrator to settle disputes and arrange wages and working conditions in the larger plants. In times of peace the states, it insisted, were fully clothed with authority to regulate the plants within their borders in all matters not having a bearing upon interstate commerce. Manufacture had repeatedly and consistently been held by the courts, Kansas declared, to be subject to local regulation, interstate commerce in the products not beginning until after manufacture had been completed.

When the packing company reduced wages, increased hours of labor and refused to renew with its workmen the contract which expired in January, 1921, the industrial relations court assumed jurisdiction over the controversy. After hearings it issued an order fixing hours of labor and stipulating a minimum wage. The order was sustained by the courts of Kansas, in spite of the packing company's protest that its employes were satisfied with the wages it had offered them, that the working hours and other features of the order were impracticable in the packing business and that it would suffer confiscation of property unless the order was set aside.

Most of the case presented by the packing company was a flat and positive denial of the accuracy of the contentions advanced by the state. tI was contended that the industrial court order contained provisions in excess of the constitutional power which lawfully could be conferred upon any tribunal in the country. The order was void, it was insisted, it was discriminatory, not operating alike upon all employers and employes in any designated industry. The company denied also that the wages it paid its employes was a matter of public concern or affected with a public interest which gave the state jurisdiction to fix them, or that there was any evidence that its proposed wage adjustment would produce strife, disorder or a shortage of food supply.

LLOYD WILSON'S PARTY RETURNS FROM YOSEMITE

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd H. Wilson and house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Prather of Excelsior Springs, Mo., returned yesterday from a most delightful week's automobile trip to Yosemite valley, where they stopped at Camp Curry. They found the waterfalls particularly beautiful at this time of year. The trip north was made by way of the inland route and the return trip along the coast route. On account of the heavy snow they were unable to return by way of Tioga Pass. During their stay at Yosemite Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Prather enjoyed several hiking trips, including one to Glacier Park.

ROBERT E. ROWLEY GETS GOLD BRICK FOR GOOD LUCK

The Student Chapter of the American Association of Engineers of the University of Southern California last Friday presented its retiring president, Robert E. Rowley, with a gold brick in recognition of his official services. It was the closing meeting of the year. Robert will be graduated June 21, and his sister, Marian, will receive a diploma the same day from Glendale High, the two programs being but four hours apart, making the day a strenuous one for the Rowley family.

A scout for the General Electric company has picked Robert for work in applied engineering at the company's headquarters in Schnectady, N. Y., and he will be leaving for that point in the near future. It will fit him for anything in the many lines of work carried on by this big corporation which is constantly on the lookout for college graduates and which, after they have taken this work asks them to indicate the place in which they would like to "carry on" and if possible assigns them to that state or country. It is probable that Robert will ask for a California assignment.

ART STUDENTS AT HI TO SPEND FINES

Throughout the year students in the art department of Glendale High have been assessing themselvs fines whenever they failed to protect a desk from becoming stained by ink or paint. While these have been penny fines, they have accumulated a sum sufficient to raise the problem of how it shall be spent They have tentatively decided on a little program and appointed class representatives to arrange it. The commercial art class which has been studying advertising slogans has named Beatrice Bolen who is talking of a slogan competition.

The class in design which has been studying color has named Frances Drake, Ennesse Norwood and Ruth Cameron. A color competition in samples of worsted is being considered, the student being shown a color and then being led to the rear of the room and asked to match it from memory.

SAMOAC CLUB VISITS L. A. AD PLANTS

Members of the Samoac Club, made up of students in the art department of Glendale High had a most interesting excursion last week to the advertising plant in Los Angeles of the Foster Kleiser company, which pictorially advertises by means of billboards.

The care and exactitude with which the work is done, and the artistic demands it makes, were a revelation to the guests.

They inspected the small original designs and then the appliance by which they are magnified and thrown upon a screen there to be traced by workers. Mr. Michaelson gave them a talk on designing and told them the De Lux pictures have to be repainted every three months. He showed them a series of designs which are being produced for Barker Brothers.

BIKE IS STOLEN

A bicycle belonging to Thomas Ely, 609 West California, was stolen from in front of the Christian church at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

CHICAGO SAL AT T. D. & L. OPENING TUESDAY NIGHT

Alice Lake and Milton Sills, two accomplished players of the screen --two players who have proven their right to stardom through exceptional acting in scorse of pictures—are the featured players in "Chicago Sal," a new Irving Cummings production for Principal Pictures, which is to receive its premier presentation at the T. D. & L. theatre Tuesday.

"Chicago Sal" was written by Harvey Gates, an experienced writer for the silent drama, an author thoroughly versed with his theme—that of a crook's redemption, and the picture is characterized by tense scenes, excellent acting and beautiful photography.

The story is one that holds the attention from beginning to end without resorting to impossible or false situations. This production by Mr. Cummings is a worthy addition to his large list of famous pictures. "Chicago Sal" is a drama of the city's underworld and the healthy atmosphere of the open country. The locale of the story is Chicago and a small community some miles distant. The action is tense, filled with suspense, offers strong conflict and sharp contacts, is rich in local color and background and moves with a vigor which will keep the spectator at strict attention throughout its unfoldment.

LA CRESCENTA NEWS AND NOTES

Harvey S. Bissell and daughter, Dorothy Ann, returned from the north last week from a two weeks' fising trip.

R. A. McDonald returned to his home in Tonapah, Nev., last week. While here Mr. McDonald was the guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Voorhees and daughter, Miss Dorothy Voorhees, returned from a stay at Idlewood and are domiciled in the H. E. Bruce home on Los Angeles and Honolulu avenues.

Fred Ott of Los Angelcs was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Haskins of West Prospect avenue.

Mrs. J. F. Jarvis of Fresno was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Erwin during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Goddon Blackwood and children of Glendora were guests of Mrs. Blackwood's father, H. A. Baldridge, over Sunday.

Miss Heolin St. Clair of Los Angeles visited friends for the week-end and attended the La Crescenta Woman's club dance.

Complimenting Mr. and Mrs. E. Philbrook of Denver, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Collins of West Prospect avenue entertained at dinner last Saturday evening. Their geusts included Mr. and Mrs. Philbrook, the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. George Carson, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Tillinghast and Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Watkins. Mr. and Mrs. Pilbrook are house geusts of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Carson of West Honolulu avenue.

The dance given by the La Crescenta Woman's club last Saturday evening was the last of a series of delightful dancing parties given during the past year and from point of attendance one of the most successful. The favors, caps, balloons and rattles, the gifts from Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Anderson, added much to the pleasure of the evening. The club members who presided over the refreshment booths and were responsible for the success of the affair included Mmes. M. S. Collins, Fred H. Anderson, A. W. Brown, H. Carpenter, W. Hickey, A. Aiken, T. Bonetto and Miss Delia Bastable. The club luncheon to be held at the La Crescenta hotel next Wednesday closes one of the most successful years of the club's existence.

HELD FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Fred J. Ross of San Fernando, who was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Knox yesterday, plead not guilty to a charge of reckless driving before Judge Lowe at 10 o'clock this morning and his hearing was set for May 19. His bail was fixed at $25.

Cosmos Nardone, 2365 Riverdale drive, plead guilty to a charge of reckless driving before Judge Lowe this morning and was fined $50, which he paid.

GRASS FIRES ARE INCREASING IN GLENDALE

Firemen Are Kept Busy Saturday and Sunday

Grass fires kept the Glendale fire department on the move during the week end, and at the same time threatened a number of the homes in the vicinity of the flames.

The following fire calls were answered by the local department:

Saturday

Call at 11:45 a. m. from 650 North Kenwood.

11:55 a. m., fire at Brand and Garfield.

Sunday

9:05 a. m., fire at 120 West Doran.

9:30 a. m., call from the corner of Sycamore and Verdugo.

11:20 a. m., fire on East Wilson.

3:05 p. m., fire at 81 East Acacia.

3:45 p. m., call from Maple and Fisher.

8:12 p. m., fire at 812 East Windsor.

All of these fires were extinguished by the local department without damage to nearby structures.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS OF THE WHITE COAL

can be done at a rate of only sixteen feet a day, due to the character of the formation. Florence tunnel is half the length of the Culebra cut in the Panama canal.

According to Mr. Blossom, 19 per cent of the Edison company employees, numbering 10,700, are stockholders in the company. Over half of this number are at work in mountain regions. Over 40,000 of the company's stockholders live in the state of California, stated Mr. Blossom.

A tremendous area is served by the Southern California Edison company, amounting to over 55,000 square miles. Electricity is furnished to 312 communities, which have a combined population of one half one-half million.

Among the many beautiful scenes shown in connection with the lecture several delightful views of Lake Huntington, on the edge of the Sequoia National Park, 75 miles northeast of Fresno, were particularly admired, as this location has been visited by several members of Kiwanis. The pictures were shown from a portable projection machine operated by Max Quintilla of Los Angeles, who assists Mr. Blossom in his work.

S. P. Morris, member of the organization service department of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, gave a short oration on "The Chivalry of Kiwanians."

He pointed out that there is business, romance and poetry to be worked out in the practical things of life.

The Kiwanians like "music with their meals," which was clearly demonstrated by the subtle response to the efforts of the jazz orchestra in this regard. This orchestra was composed of four high schol artists, Ralph Van Hoorebeck making the piano talk back, Lowry Truitt exposing the possibilities of the saxophone, Ed Stockbridge doing unbelievable things with his banjo, and Ivan Doe challenging the world with his cornet. Kiwanians responded favorably to the music, and sang "Long, Long Trail" with particular zest. Herbert Henning of 1211 North Columbus directing their efforts.

Upon a motion recommended by Ed Radke of 109 South Brand boulevard, the membership drive of the chamber of commerce was endorsed by the club. This endorsement was asked by A. L. Ferguson, president of the club.

Beware of the man who professes to be your friend, but who is given to drawing uncharitable inferences.

DOG PROTECTIVE SOCIETY TO BE FORMED HERE

Mass Meeting of Dog Owners Is Called for Friday

There will be a public meting held in the Glendale union high school next Friday night, June 15, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of bringing to the attention of the people more unconstitutional legislation and practices.

The Dog Protective association will try to explain that there is no need of vaccination and that this is just being handed down as have other things from the past.

Never before in Glendale has an Animal Rescue society been so much needed. All those wishing to become members can do so next Friday night.

HOLLIS MOYSE IS ELECTED CAPTAIN OF CAL TECH TEAM

Hollis Moyse, a senior in Cal. Tech., and son of Principal George U. Moyse of Glendale High, has just been elected captain of the school football team for the coming year. He has made an unusual record in athletics especially in baseball where he made more hits and home runs and stolen bases than any other student. He has also been elected representative at large of the students' executive board, and also elected president of letter men, an organization of students who have received letters for athletics.

He finished his work for the year Saturday noon and has already started in on summer work for the Neustad Construction company in re-inforced steel. Chemical engineering is the course he is taking experience in and constructive work is said to be more in demand that along research lines.

JUNE ROMANCE

Above the incessant chatter of the Press linotypes, busy mixing up the gossip of the day's events, as linotype machines do, in the melody of the composing room, Winchester Dean, employe of the Glendale Daily Press, heard the call of the romance of June and on Saturday took the decisive matrimonial step, making Miss Melba Green his wife, the wedding taking place at Ventura. So the linotypes are giggling about it right here. And this is what they say:

This step was not achieved entirely without the customary obstacles. It so happened that the fellow employes in the shop acquired the idea that Dean's matrimonial venture was running all too smoothly and so in order to put a few too many spokes in the wheels of progress, one of the "boys" obtained a police tag and filling it out to the effect that Dean had parked his car too long, attached the same to the steering wheel of his flivver.

The card bore orders for Dean to appear in court Saturday morning at 6:30. Now the fates had already decreed that Dean should be on his way to Ventura at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, so it behooved him to do the well known "rush act" and visit the "cops" and try and fix it. In the meantime the cops had become sufficiently intelligent to execute the clever wartime army stunt of "passing the buck," and Dean, having been a sailor lad, was not familiar with this land-lubber deal, and consequently spent the better part of Friday night trying to square himself on this charge before finding out that he had been made the victim of a composing room joke.

The big event was successfully enacted, however, as per schedule, Saturday morning, and Dean has returned to the Press printing department this morning, "very much married."

In order to somewhat atone for the unnecessary worry they occasioned him on the eve of his wedding, Dean's fellow employes are presenting the happy couple with a beautiful set of silverware to show that they have properly repented of their misdeeds.

Mrs. Normal Hayhurst of 341 Oak street was hostess Saturday afternoon at a miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Mary Oestergard, who is to become the bride of A. Hall of Glendale the latter part of this month. The guests included Mrs. J. E. Odell, Mrs. S. H. Reed, Mrs. Hensler, Mrs. Essie D. Koen, Mrs. Charles E. Irving, Mrs. A. Oestergard, Mrs. Edith Parker, Mrs. C. A. Roberts, Miss Dorothy Johns, Miss Dorothy Deman, Miss Stella Boly, Miss Helen Lodergan, Miss Canzada Christensen, Miss Esther Anderson, Miss Lucille Cartwright, Miss Mabel Stewart, Miss Betty Barlow, Miss Harding, Miss Winnifred Booker and Miss Mary Oestergard.

Miss Oestergard is a teacher in the Eagle Rock schools. Mrs. Hall is assistant instructor in chemistry at the University of Southern California. They are both residents of Glendale.

GLENDALE GIRLS' GLEE TO SING AT CLUB MEET

Glendale girls are to feature the musical program to be given at the annual luncheon of the Tuesday Afternoon club June 26. The girls' glee club of Glendale High will render the cantata they gave at the recent glee club concert. Doris Packer will be the reader of the afternoon. Dorothy Watson and Marjorie Jean Bailey will be heard in a harp and violin number, and Miss Bailey will probably also give a solo number.

MRS. SALMACIA GIVES PARTY FOR LITTLE DAUGHTER

Mrs. Frank Salmacia of 361 West California avenue entertained with a children's party Saturday afternoon in celebration of the third birthday anniversary of her daughter, Margaret Salmacia. The little guests included Billy and Mary Jane Bade of Los Angeles, Rosemary and Lawrence LeSage of Pasadena, Sonny Clark, Betty Jane Boothby, Rita and Jesse Jr., Smith, John and Jane Brennan, Regina and Dorothy Machtolf, all of whom were accompanied by their mothers. Other guests included Mrs. Vincent Salmacia, Mrs. A. H. Campbell and daughter, Georgietta.

Sweet peas were used for decorations. Each little tot was presented with a favor. They were very much delighted with the refreshments of cake and ice cream molded in the shape of animals.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Frank Salmacia entertained with a dancing party for grownups. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Machtolf of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. John Caldwell of Sunland, Miss Marie Kiell, Miss Clara Munger, Miss Martha Sowensky, Miss Elsie Begner, Earl Evans, H. Murphy, Vincent Salmacia, A. Schuster. At a late hour refreshments were served.

TONE PAGEANT PROVES NOVEL EVENT

The history of music from its beginning to the present day was most interestingly portrayed in costumes appropriate to the various periods at the "Tone Pageant" and recital given Saturday night at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse by the pupils of Mrs. Pearl Curran and Miss Hazel Linkogle for the benefit of the piano fund of the music section of the club.

Mrs. Curran arranged the program of piano numbers, while Miss Linkogle directed the presentation of Haydn's "Toy Symphony." Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward assistd by taking charge of the sale of tickets. Over $50 will be cleared for the piano fund.

This unusual program was most thoroughly enjoyed by the large number of friends present, who were not only delighted at the character of the program but also in the manner in which the various numbers were presented.

MISS DOROTHY WILLIAMS TO TEACH AT CALEXICO

Miss Dorothy Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Williams of El Centro, formerly of 208 South Orange street, Glendale, has accepted a position on the faculty of the Calexico Union high school for next year. She will give instruction in latin and English. Miss Williams has been teaching the past year at Blythe. She is a graduate of the University of California and has also had additional work at the University of Southern California.

MISS ORRELL HESTER CELEBRATES HER BIRTHDAY

Miss Orrell Hester celebrated her eighteenth birthday Saturday with a little party at which seventeen of her girls schoolmates were entertained. They did not know it was a natal day function until they arrived. Dancing and bunko were the chief diversions of the afternoon although these were supplemented by impromptu musical numbers by the guests, and refreshments were served at the close. In place of a central cake bearing 18 candles, at each place was an individual cake carrying one candle. Places were indicated for: Lois Olmstead, Frances Wyman, Gertrude Heideman, Doris Moyse, Jane Fritch, Eleanor Foster, Hazel Linkogel, Ruth Hunt, Jessie Hunt, Helen Sherwood, Gladys Peckham, Charles Talbott, Katherine Hollingsworth, Barbara Kranz, Florence Rattray, Marian Gray, Louise Hester and the honoree.

TUESDAY DIRECTORS HONORED AT LUNCHEON

Mrs. John Robert White, Mrs. A. P. Findlay and Mrs. John Dunn, retiring members of the board of the Tuesday Afternoon club, were honored guests today at a luncheon given at the club by the board.

Rev. O. P. Rider, who sold his lot at 208 E. Acacia avenue to the city school board, will move the building to a lot he owns at Everett and Lomita, to serve as a home for himself and daughter, Miss Ruth, who is to teach in Glendale next year. She will arrive from Aurora, Minn., about June 20.

MISS LINKOGEL ENROUTE EAST FOR CONTEST

Miss Hazel Linkogel, violinist, of East Chestnut street, left last night on the Santa Fe for Chicago, Illinois, where she will take her preliminary examinations on June 17 for the contest on June 25 for a scholarship under Leopold Auer, world famous violinist. Miss Linkogle will be met at Kansas City, Mo., by her sister, Mrs. E. E. Gossrau of Texas, who will accompany her to Chicago. If Miss Linkogle is successful in the examinations at the Chicago Musical College on June 17 she will enter the final competition for the scholarship on June 25.

KATHLEEN WOODS TO DANCE TUESDAY

Miss Kathleen Woods, late of the Orpheum circuit, daughter of Mrs. Nanno Woods, will be seen Tuesday evening in a dramatic gypsy dance, "La Zingana," in the Glendale high school auditorium. Miss Woods will give the last number in the first part of the children's entertainment produced by Mrs. Woods under auspices of Community Service. The second part of the program will consist of the musical comedy, "The Land of Dolls," in which 40 clever Glendale kiddies will take part. This wonderful entertainment is open to the public; adults and children alike are cordially invited by Community Service to be present. Tuesday, June 12, 8 p. m. sharp.

MacCHESNEY HAS PREMIER IN PLAY

"Impotent Pieces," a drama in three acts, was given its premier performance at the Polytechnic auditorium Friday, the 8th, with a special cast under the direction of the author, Haroid A. MacChesney. It was well received by the large audience present. Ralph J. Holly as David Craig and Bert Eaton as Quentin Craig carried off the honors for their fine acting. The play is well written with the exception of a few phrases. Credit is due Frances J. Wallis for the splendid way she coached the actors.

BIBLE CLASS TO HOLD PICNIC

The picnic which was planned for Thursday of this week for the members of Rev. J. A. Hubbard's Bible class of the Presbyterian church, is to be held next Wednesday, June 13. Those who plan to attend, are notified to take the 10:30 Montrose car out of Glendale. The picnic is to be held at Verdugo Woodland park, and those attending will bring picnic lunches.

MADRIGAL CLUB HAS FINAL REHEARSAL

Members of the Madrigal Club under Mrs. Charles A. Parker, their director, are having their final rehearsal today for the concert they are to give Tuesday night under the auspices of the women's society of the Glendale Presbyterian church. It will be the organization's last concert of the season.

Mrs. H. E. Cox and the two younger children of 605 East Lomita will leave next week for an extended visit with relatives in Clark and Crawford counties, Illinois.

Miss Vera Holloway, teacher in the Broadway scholo, has tendered her resignation.

WORLD PREMIER OF BIG FILM AT THE GLENDALE

Preview of "Judgment of the Storm" With Viola Dana, Thursday

An unusual treat awaits the patrons of the Glendale theater next Thursday night, June 14, when the world's premiere of a film upon which the eyes of the entire motion picture profession has been focused for months, will be given. That film is the Palmer Photoplay Corporation's big feature drama, "Judgment of the Storm," which is to prove or disprove the value of screen plays written expressly for motion pictures, as photoplay material.

That is the question upon which the big producers of the country are putting much thought, and the Glendale audience will help decide it before audiences in the big theaters of New York, Chicago and Los Angeles get a chance to see the picture—for which the program issued that night there is a voting blank and the request that patrons give short, constructive criticisms of the picture.

The Palmer Corporation attaches much value to these opinions, and for that reason fifty dollars in prizes will be offered for the best reviews. Twenty-three prizes will be given. Full details are to be found in this week's issue of the Glendale theater program. Lloyd Hughes, Lucille Ricksen, George Hackathorn, Myrtle Stedman and several other well-known stars are featured in the production. The regular offering on that evening will be Viola Dana in "Love in the Dark."

CARBONIC GAS HAS CURATIVE EFFECTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—Noted specialists at the National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives in New York have discovered that carbon dioxide or carbonic gas, destroys the germ of tuberculosis and therefore contributes to health and life. Carbonic gas is best known to the public through its use in the manufacture of carbonated beverages, now consumed to the extent of hundreds of millions of gallons annually.

Attention of the scientific world was recently attracted by announcement from the Jewish Hospital for Consumtives that specialists at that institution had made "remarkable progress in discoveries of treatment and diagnostic symptoms of tuberculosis." In a report for the research department of the hospital, Dr. H. J. Corper said that he had "proved experimentally that carbon dioxide, or carbonic gas, has an inhibitory effect on the growth of tuberculosis bacilli.' It was further said that the hope was held out that progress of that dreaded disease could be arrested by supplementing the normal supply of this gas, created by combustion in the human body. Dr. Meyer, chairman of the research board, said that while it would be premature to say then just what might be expected from the experiments being conducted with carbonic gas, "nevertheless we know an important contribution has hereby been made to the knowledge of tuberculosis."

It is carbon dioxide with which water is charged for the manufacture of carbonated beverages. Many noted authorities have from time to time testified that carbonated water and beverages were healthful, and to their testimonials is now added the important discovery that carbon dioxide is particularly destructive of the tuberculosis germ.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Rowley had the pleasure on Sunday of entertaining Robert Smith from Lacar, Iowa, a cousin of Mr. Rowley, who is touring the west.

SIGNIFICANT CIVIC DEVOTION

The recent victory for bonds won at the Los Angeles election, really was but a second expression of a spirit already manifest. Only a few months earlier the same city had voted to issue school bonds to the amount of more than seventeen million dollars. At about the same time the highly intellectual city of Boston was congratulating itself upon having sanctioned an issue for similar purpose, the total being between two millions and three millions of dollars. California provides well for its schools, takes pride in them; makes them places of beauty as well as of instruction. Now a decision has been reached that having excelled in this particular and important line, it shall live up to its schools. Such spirit is not shown in Los Angeles alone. There are indications of it in every city in this wide community.

Soon after the Los Angeles affair Pasadena held an election to determine as to issuing $3,500,000 bonds for a civic center. It made just as much of a campaign about it, and in proportion to size, just as much noise, as its larger neighbor. The campaign was animated—to put it mildly. It closed with rocket flares, resounding bombs, the blare of horns that enthusiastically drowned out corner orators who were spouting in full harmony with the more audible horn brigade. The result of it all was another triumph for municipal ambition and pride. Pasadena will have a civic center, and its example doubtless will be followed.

Devoted southern Californians feel that this is just exactly as should be. The efforts to build up an ideal municipality, long cherished by the residents of this California city or that, are coming to fruition, and dreams, once hardly more than hopes, are being realized.

THE DARK HORSE

In almost every election to decide upon a choice of men for office there is the "dark horse." The term has become very common, and has been in use for many years. Predictions are frequent that victory will go to a "dark horse." Not that a horse of this color has any advantage in speed. On the race track nobody picks a winner by reason of its color. There are other qualities to be considered.

In politics the dark horse is the man in the background. He may have been so far back as to have escaped observation. His success seems to depend alone on the sudden eclipse of the probabilities. Candidates that had been regarded as certain, sometimes get swept aside, and out from obscurity comes the dar.. horse at a gallop.

Disraeli described a race in one of his books. He had a way of describing well a race, or an thing else. This is one paragraph:

"The first favorite was never heard of, the second favorite was never seen after the distance post, all the ten-to-oners were in the rear, and a dark horse which never had been thought of . . . rushed past the grandstand in sweeping triumph."

Had the unexpected winner been dapple-grey, sorrel or chestnut, doubtless the sudden and unpredicted victor in the modern political contest would have been appropriately named dapple-grey, sorrel or chestnut, and the prevalent black horse of each succeeding campaign, have been a horse of another color.

Disraeli's work does not remain a potent force in letters. Modern readers scarcely know that it still is to be found in libraries. But by a few pen strokes, and no idea of their lasting effect, he introduced to the political speedtrack one of its abiding characters. He created the "dark horse;" not much perhaps, but more than is to be placed to the credit of some writers.

DEFENDING THE FLAG

There is in progress a subtle attack upon all the institutions for which the flag of the United States stands. These institutions are highly valued. The flag is reverenced because it is their visible emblem.

Some of the attacks, the instigators emboldened by immunity, have lost the quality of subtlety. They are open and brazen. One such emanates from the American Civil Liberties Union. Identified with this body are men who dodged the draft, or are frank in their sympathy with the slackers. One is William Z. Foster, notorious as an anarchist. Others are John Haynes Holmes and Roger N. Baldwin. They term themselves pacifists. Under the conditions they hope to bring about they declare: "War will be a crime, the soldier a criminal, the soldier's uniform a convict's garb, the army a disgrace and an infamy."

It is unnecessary to say that such an utterance has all the essence of treason. It could not receive endorsement save from those who in case this nation had to defend itself against invasion, would be actually guilty of treason.

Perhaps there is no occasion to get excited over this group of disloyal agitators. At any rate the fact that they are known greatly limits their power for evil. Far more dangerous it may be, is the insidious propaganda inspired by enemies of the government who are too shrewd to come into the open, and whose output of poison opinion is so disguised that by the casual reader it might not be recognized at a glance.

Doubtless there is a purpose in providing dirigibles as a part of the system of defense. It must be based on the idea that these balloons, albeit fragile of aspect, have a certain permanency. Facts seem to conflict with this theory.

While Victor Berger over in Hamburg is talking about the million socialists he left behind him, the socialist party is lamenting its inability to muster more than 14,000 voters. However, a little discrepancy like this is nothing to Berger.

RIGHTS OF ALIENS

The supreme court has upheld the Workmen's Compensation law as the measure touches alien labor employed in California. Probably all but the individuals whose contentions have been overruled, will be glad that the law is sustained. It is plain that the decision tends also to buttress the principles of justice, which a law does not do, invariably.

In this case alien workmen employed in California were killed by accident. Had they not been aliens, no question could have arisen as to payment of industrial insurance to their dependents. It chanced that the dependents were residents of Mexico, and never had been in this country. The supreme court affirms that the place of residence makes no difference. There will be small dissent from this ruling.

The law-abiding alien in a commonwealth of the United States is fairly entitled to the protection of its statutes. If he is competent to hold a job and earn wages, it is plain that he ought to have whatever status any individual would have if similarly employed. If by hiring aliens, employers could evade the necessity for insuring them, there might be a marked tendency to seek this class of toilers, to the neglect of others.

Fair play is a part of the American policy. It is because of this that attempted imposition upon aliens is resented by good citizens. The classes that may not be welcome, may not be abused or imposed upon while here, without exciting protests on their behalf.

There seems to be an entire misconception of the reason that for a time the study of German was forbidden in the schools of many states. The action was not due to a foolish prejudice, but to the circumstance that in certain localities the public school system was being conducted as a part of the scheme of Germany to dominate the world. Not only was German the only language heard there, but German ideas were the only ones taught. Of course this had to be stopped as a war measure. Happily the war is over.

A friend of the bolshevists suggests that it is rash to antagonize Russia, a power that is destined to reach a total population of one hundred millions. This could be only the utterance of the "parlor pink." Antagonizing bolshevism is the surest way to win the friendship of the Russia that is to be.

MARRIAGE AND JESTING

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Perhaps I am old fashioned or squeamish, but two news items that appeared recently made me wince.

One was the announcement, as an attraction at a fair or bazaar or something of the kind, of a mock wedding. This was supposed to be a great attraction, though why it would be difficult to decide. There is nothing amusing in a wedding; it is an event fraught with tremendous issues for good or ill. It begins, or should begin, the most solemn obligations and duties of two lives. Marriage is a pact between two people and the state in which they live, and there is about it nothing of a nature to amuse the public. Therefore, why a mock wedding?

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

It may be natural for crude, rough people whose ideas of marital obligations are seasoned with their own vulgar thinking to be able to haw-haw over a mock wedding. But we Americans should be getting to a stage of dignity which would make us shudder at the mockery of using such an occasion even in jest as a means of entertainment.

The second item that made me wince was an article accompanied by a photograph showing the latest style spasm in divorce cards. A woman just liberated by law from her husband sent out cards announcing the fact as though it were a festive occasion. Vulgar? I fancy many people will agree that it is.

Divorce may not be a tragedy, but back of it is always something which inevitably should be tragic, broken faith, violated obligations, disappointment, human wreckage. It may with the aid of philosophy be possible to look on such happenings calmly, but they can never be the appropriate occasion for announcement cards.

Suggest training the young in an honest attitude toward marriage and you horrify many otherwise worthy souls, but these same "worthy souls" are not moved one iota by the making light of marriage and divorce suggested in mock weddings and divorce cards. No wonder the young are bewildered; their elders are equally so.

Some years ago an effort was made by certain municipal governments to keep moving picture companies, from presenting the screen policeman in a ridiculous light, it being suggested that to make an officer of the law absurd, even of the silver screen, tended to destroy in the collective mind that respect which should be given to law and its representatives.

If this psychology applies in the case of police, how much more should it apply to any institution as vital to human happiness as marriage and as fraught with possibilities of human misery as divorce?

All of which may be old-fashioned—but it's sense. I myself admit it.

DICTIONARYLAND

(Find the error in this article)

When you open your dictionary to look up the pronunciation of a word, remember that the accent is a very important detail.

Your investigation will be very simple if only one accent is given. However, in long words, two accents are often indicated, a primary and a secondary.

If you will stress the syllable designated by the primary accent, the syllable with the secondary accent will usually, if not always, receive sufficient emphasis.

When two accents are used, either the primary is in blacker ink than the secondary, or is a single accent (′), as contrasted with the secondary, which is double (″).

May Berg, New York: "Please inform me what is the correct salutation to use when writing a letter in the following manner:

The proper salutation, Gentlemen, has been inserted.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

Jones was a little late.
A matter of fifteen minutes perhaps.
Not very much to be sure,
But a little.

* * *

And enough to irritate the members of the party or family that Jones was to take out to dinner in his car.

* * *

And so when Jones drove up fifteen minutes late, his guests to be were out of sorts.

Not much.
Just a little.

As Jones was late—just a little.

For the dinner hour was set.

And they had just time to make it comfortably if Jones was on time.

* * *

It was to be a dinner with the party afterward.

And it was all timed to schedule.
As people have to live in these days.
By schedule.
Sad but true enough.

* * *

So Jones admitted his tardiness.
But he said he would step on it.
They would reach the place for dinner on time.
He would make up the fifteen minutes.
So he stepped on it.
And went swimmingly along.

* * *

But there was a traffic officer patroling the road.

And when Jones stepped on it, he stepped on Jones.

Made him drive in to the side of the road.

Took his name and number.
And gave him a ticket.

* * *

That took ten minutes more.

And Jones did not want to step on it again.

He did not want to be ticketed twice in one evening.

So he got to the dinner with his guests half an hour late.

And his host and hostess did not want to set down without him and his party.

* * *

So the dinner was late.
Some of it was overdone.
The other guests and the servants and the host and hostess were nervous and put out.

Because Jones was late, because the dinner was late, and because the guests were all ill at ease.

And the dinner had to be hurried.

For there was just time to get to the theatre on time, without figuring on half an hour's tardiness.

* * *

So the dinner was hurried.
It ended fifteen minutes late.

And the members of the party would be able to get to the theatre if they stepped on the gas a little.

Which they did.

And again the traffic officer was on the job.
More names, numbers and tickets.

* * *

They got to the theatre forty-five minutes late.

The play was spoiled, as was the dinner.

All because Jones was fifteen minutes late in the first place.

And Jones was fifteen minutes late because he had not thought to get a shave.

* * *

Thoughtfulness and courtesy and consideration are splendid things.

But there are many Joneses who take no account of them.

Songs of the Poets

To Daffodils—By Robert Herrick

Fair Daffodils, we weep to see
You haste away so soon;
As yet the early-rising sun
Has not attained his noon.
Stay, stay,
Until the hasting day
Has run
But to the even-song;
And, having prayed together, we
Will go with you along.

We have short time to stay as you,
We have as short a spring;
As quick a growth to meet decay,
As you or any thing.
We die
As your hours do, and dry
Away,
Like to a summer's rain;
Or as the pearls of morning dew,
Ne'er to be found again.

BREAKING ENGAGEMENTS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The other day Washington society was agitated by the sudden announcement that a young lady had broken her engagement to the young gentleman she was going to marry. The announcement came as a real shock and surprise because it was given out on what was to have been the wedding day of the young couple.

Hundreds of handsome gifts which had been received by the bride-elect had to be returned. Wedding guests in attendance from out of town had to go back home. The decorations were removed, and the bridegroom and his parents had to make arrangements to return to England, whence they had come.

About the merits of this particular case, one way or the other, of course we have nothing to say, as it is entirely a private matter which concerns only the parties directly interested.

But it brings up a point that might well be discussed.

And that point is that if the relations between a young couple are going to be broken at all, it is much better that they be broken before marriage than after.

While long engagements are not usually advisable, they should at least be long enough to give the parties concerned time to think matters over rather thoroughly.

The main difference between the kind of love that is genuine and the kind of love that is spurious is that the former will bear thinking over and waiting for, and in the latter impatience is usually dominant.

We all sympathize with the singer who describes his disappointment (or hers, I forget which) by declaring, "There was I, waiting at the church." But it is a good deal better to be left in the lurch, even at the altar, than to effect a separation after the marriage has been performed.

The union of one man and one woman is certainly "not to be taken lightly," but seriously, as befits that which has to do with the very basic conditions of life.

No marriage is decent without love. But, at the same time, love is not the only thing to be considered. Marriage is as large and complex and important as life itself and certainly should not be consummated without being carefully looked at from every angle and given most intelligent judgment.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

DAYLIGHT SAVING AND HEALTH

[New York World]

The benefits of daylight saving in the matter of recreation do not need the support of statistical averages. To have its relation to better health indicated by mortality figures is, however, a cause for satisfaction, and the bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company bearing on the subject has a special pertinence.

According to the company's tables, since 1913 the greatest decrease in the number of deaths has occurred in the third quarter of the year, embracing July, August and September. But while the decline in those months for the ten-year period amounted to 30.3 per cent, for the five-year period since the institution of daylight saving by act of congress it has amounted to 25 per cent of the total, a preponderating percentage.

"It is of singular interest," says the bulletin, "that these three months show not only the greatest decline in mortality during the last ten years, but also register the minimum mortality rates for the year." It is not only of singular but of suggestive interest.

Whether or not some part of the notable decrease of the death rate in summer is directly attributable to the additional hour of daylight, that added daily portion of sunlight in large urban communities like New York has been contemporaneous with the improvement, and the coincidence is noteworthy. It at least affords a foundation on which to base an argument for daylight saving as a potential aid to health.

HOW MUCH IS MADE?

[Columbus Citizen]

One hundred thousand cases of liquor have been smuggled into this country by the rum running fleets. Before this figure startles you, remember that in 1911, before America began going dry, 280 times that much whisky was manufactured in the United States.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There is no defense to be made for lynch law. No writer in any way desirous of influencing the trend of current thought could think of defending it. It is brutal, cowardly and wholly reprehensible.

HENRY JAMES

But while lynch law may not be defended, it may be explained. The public abhors the violence of the mob. It raises its hands in horror; yet it is responsible for the mob. The mob is the representative of the public. It is doing precisely that which the public has made inevitable.

Crime is increasing. Many of the perpetrators are escaping altogether, not even experiencing the inconvenience of arrest and arraignment. Such as are captured are not fully or promptly punished. They are punished inadequately, and after long delay, if at all. Many of them through the trickery of lawyers (who assume not to be accessories) defy and defeat the whole mechanism of justice.

When a criminal is sent to the penitentiary, which may happen if he failed to get probation, the first care of the authorities seems to be to arrange for the curtailing of his sentence, turning it often into a travesty and a joke. Even a "life sentence" is meaningless.

Occasionally a dangerous criminal caught in the act, is killed on the spot. A much wiser policy for him would have been meek surrender and a bluff at contrition, and the hiring of a trick attorney.

Of late there have been many assaults on women and girls. Some of these have been the work of gangs. Such details as are fit to print, and more, have appeared in the news columns from time to time. The agony and humiliation of the victim could not be portrayed. The anger and the shame of the family, the resentment of the community, do not need to be portrayed.

A man charged with being guilty of one of the most heinous of these assaults was released on $500 bail.

There's the explanation of mob law if anybody wants it. There is a limit beyond which the degenerate may not go without incurring penalty. If the duly constituted authorities cannot or will not apply the penalty, the mob will. That's the truth in a nutshell.

The act charged should be unbailable. Arrest should be followed by early trial to avoid possibility of keeping an unjustly accused person in jail. The person guilty of the offense merits the punishment of death. In the absence of this he deserves a real sentence to real life imprisonment.

When women may not walk the streets in safety, something is sure to be done about it. The law will do it or the lawless will do it.

The solemnity with which the marriage rite is regarded sometimes is shown in the course of a bigamy case. The husband of two women is in jail, sentenced as a bigamist. The two ex-wives, or pretty-near-wives, or whatever they may be called, both entertain an affection for him. They want to get him out. The basis of division after they have accomplished this laudable undertaking is not stated, but for the present they are warm friends thrilled by a common ideal.

Promise of success lies in the statement of one of the women, the one who brought about the arrest of the duplex hubby, that at the time she married him she had two husbands, having neglected the formality of divorcing either. This may help the male bigamist, but it does not place her in an enviable light.

Too bad there is not a rockpile available for the trio.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

It's a funny thing. Sammy Long goes with good people. Joe Fisher goes with bums. Yet Long is a very ordinary sort of a runt. He is likable, kindly, loud, generous, with the copious intelligence of a chinchbug. He associates with some of the very finest men in town. Fisher is keen, bright, witty, rather selfish, but fundamentally sound. Yet his friends are—compared to Long's—wharf rats.

"Mrs. Long is a more intelligent woman than Mrs. Fisher," says my adored partner.

Even so, the explanation isn't sufficient. Mrs. Fisher is good enough to get by. My own suggestion is that Long likes to associate with people who are superior to him, whereas Fisher likes to be the big duck, even if the puddle is a scant one. When Long gives a party his guests are men and women whose names you have heard. When Fisher entertains he seats anonymous nondescripts at his table.

This isn't a preachment of snobbishness. The man who tries to pick friends because of presumed social rank, or because of riches, or honors, is a snob. But, as a cold matter of chilly fact, it doesn't pay to waste time on tomnoddies. It pays me—and I'm putting this on the most selfish basis possible—it pays me to associate with men who know more than I do. Real wit arouses a better grade of laughter than the brayed repetition of some outworn vaudeville joke. A story of experience, told of real men, is apt to have its value. A story the teller is forced to whisper in the hall inevitably blurs the fine edge of character both for him who tells and for him who listens.

"I'll venture to say that in ten years Fisher will be unknown. Long may have become a power.

NEWS OF EAGLE ROCK CITY

OXY CLASS OF 1923 TO START GREEK THEATRE

"Medea" of Upipides on June 14 to Be First Step in Accomplishing Aims

The 1923 class at Occidental college has announced its intention of presenting the first unit of a Greek theater to be erected upon the Occidental campus. The Medea of Euripides, which the senior class is presenting from the translation of Dr. William Dennis, head of the Greek department, will be a particularly appropriate presentation for furtherance of the desire.

The costumes used in the Medea, designed by Mr. Frederick Alfred Eastman and executed by members of the senior class, will be given to the college as the beginning of a Greek wardrobe.

The music is especially commendable, presenting some special features in the way of harmony in line with the theme of the Medea. The movements of the chorus have been arranged by Mrs. Laura Swartz and Mrs. Harriette de Ment-Packard has directed the singing. Mr. Gilmor Brown, who has worked with the Community Players of Pasadena with notable success, has devoted his time and interest to the artistic and finished staging of the production.

There is a special opportunity in the play for startling effects of color and design.

The story of the Medea is full of the romance and strength of old Greece. From the Argonautic expedition Jason returns home to Iolchos, bringing not only the golden fleece, but Medea, the greatest sorceress of all time, as his bride. Here the daughters of Pelias are persuaded to slay their father on the promise that Medea will restore him to life and youth by her magic. The promise is not kept and Jason and Medea flee to Corinth. The play opens at this point, with Jason yielding to the lure of a royal alliance. He deserts Medea and marries the daughter of King Creon.

Medea is sentenced to banishment, but she obtains a respite of one day. In that one day she accomplishes all the revenge which has welled up in her heart. The king and his daughter perish from the effects of a poisoned robe, a wedding gift from Medea. Then she slays her two children in order to wreak vengeance upon her husband. After this, taking their dead bodies, she mounts a chariot of the sun and disappears.

Miss Ida Uzelle is cast as Medea, Mr. Thomas Erwin as Jason, Miss Margaret Odell as Choryphaeus, and Mr. Donald Walker as King Creon.

The play is of special interest because of its splendor and because it is a distinct step ahead in productions of this kind. It is being sponsored by many prominent members of business, educational and social circles.

The Medea is being presented in the "Upper Quad" on the evening of June 14.

WOMEN'S CLUB TO TAKE UP CLEAN UP WORK

One Representative to Spread Clean-up Propaganda on Each Street

The Twentieth Century club has adopted the Clean-up Campaign and, combining efforts with the other interested organizations, will assist in pushing the endeavor through to a successful finish. Mrs. C. W. Young is in charge of the work and has put each district and every street in that district, in charge of members of the Women's club.

Mrs. Mary Hickson has been detailed to care for the district east of Central avenue as far as Rosemont, Mrs. A. Boyce in charge of the territory beyond Rosemont, and Mrs. Anne Harrison the section south of Colorado. These ladies will have numerous representatives working under them, one for each street. They will visit the residents and inform them of the necessity for proper firebreaks, and request that they make these so that the fire department can either burn them or issue permits for their clearance.

The clean-up work, which has been delayed this week owing to the fact that the firemen who took an active part in the campaign were detailed to night work, will be resumed this week. New sections have been laid out, and restrictions as to the burning of lots in the business sections established. Permits will be issued wherever the firemen find the proper firebreaks made to insure perfect safety to nearby buildings during the burning.

Miss Kirsey to Be Brought Home Tuesday

Miss Lillian Ruth Kirksey, daughter of Mrs. C. A. Kirksey of 210 East Hill avenue, is recovering from the operation for appendicitis which she underwent at the Clara Barton hospital in Los Angeles, last Sunday morning.

Miss Kirksey became ill very suddenly Saturday night and was rushed to the hospital where the operation was performed at once. She will be brought home Tuesday if she recovers her strength sufficiently for the move by that time.

45 ATTEND CARD PARTY OF LEGION AUXILIARY

Pleasant Affair Will Be Repeated Frequently in the Fall

About forty-five persons, many of them new in Eagle Rock, attended the Legion Auxiliary card party at the Besselo residence, 155 Ellenwood drive, Friday night. The affair was not only a splendid social success, but netted the auxiliary something over $15 from the score cards, which sold for 35 cents each.

This is but the beginning of many similar enjoyable affairs which the auxiliary will put on in the future. These will be planned at the next meeting which takes place on the evening of June 21. This will be the final meeting before the vacation, during which social entertainments and general meetings will be suspended for two months, but the Baked Food Sale will be held at 113 East Colorado boulevard on June 23, as planned.

Everyone who attended the card party desired that it be repeated soon. The refreshments, raspberry sherbet and home-made cakes, proved especially popular. The affair turned out to be more of a big, sociable party than just a general card party of the usual type.

Mrs. J. E. Argus of 535 East Hill avenue, has several guests visiting from Eastern points. She has been spending several days at Coronado, entertaining Miss Etta Smith and Mrs. Bob Knight of New York city. Other delightful motor trips have been made to many interesting sites by Mrs. Argus and her guests.

DAHLIA COMMITTEE REGISTERING PRIZES

Mrs. C. W. Young, chairman of the dahlia committee, announces that she is ready to register prizes for the Dahlia show which takes place in October, both from business houses or organizations and from individuals who are interested in making the competition more keen. Last year a splendid spirit was evidenced in the flower show, and many persons came forward to make the affair a success. Worthwhile prizes, $50, $35, $25, $10 and $5, were offered.

Mrs. Young states that, regardless of the governmental change occasioned by annexation, the community feeling is as strong as ever, and that the fine spirit of cooperation of last year will surely be equalled this season. Prize offers are expected from all the more prominent organizations, as well as some from smaller associations. The churches will also be asked to assist in making this affair a success.

Anyone who wishes to advance a prize, is asked to communicate with Mrs. Young of 900 Rock Glen avenue, telephone Garvanza 1946.

C. OF C. MEMBERS TO BE DRAFTED FOR SERVICE

Although the membership campaign for the chamber of commerce has quieted down during the actual business of organizing for definite work, there will soon be instituted a new campaign whereby each present member will be a worker.

A team of 12 men will be organized and each one of these instructed to bring in one new member. As soon as this is accomplished the members of the team will be released and others put in their places.

An individual prospect list will be compiled so the work will not be difficult for anyone, and it will insure a number of new members for the chamber of commerce.

To date 323 are on the membership list.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK

'LOYALTY TO A PURPOSE' IS THEME OF BACCALAUREATE SERMON PREACHED BY REV. E. A. MAIN

Seniors Have Inspiring Program for Sunday Service at the Burbank High School Auditorium Which Commmunity Attends

"Vacant Thrones" was the subject of the baccalaureate sermon of Rev. E. A. Main Sunday evening when he preached to the thirty-four graduates of the high school. Loyalty to a purpose was the theme of address.

"To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in His throne." (Rev. 3:21), was the text of the sermon.

Dr. Main began his sermon by pointing out the fact that the school should give the graduates the proper attitude toward life so that they may be able to answer the question (1) what shall I do with my inheritance? (2) What shall I do with the circumstances in which God has placed me? (3) What shall I do with Jesus?

Kingdoms to be gained is the goal which now lies before the graduate. Go out into the world with the idea of giving the best you can to every task, was the advice of the pastor. He advised the pupils to get out and earn the dollars in order to make money their servant.

Find a purpose in life. Then have loyalty to this deep set purpose, repeated the speaker throughout the sermon. In telling of future goals he spoke of the need of ministers. In one little section of the country, he said, there were fifty thousand churches with thirty-five thousand preachers, showing fifteen thousand churches without pastors.

"Find a purpose and let the music of it settle in your soul as you strive toward the goal. Be loyal to it no matter what the cost," he pleaded.

"You will never get anywhere without work. Success in life comes only as the result of continuous hard work," reminded the man who practices what he preaches. Then he recalled the formula for success that of (1) preparation, (2) inspiration and (3) perspiration.

In speaking of the necessity of having Christ as an ideal in the life, Rev. Main said he hoped for the day when the church would be the center of everyone's life just as the school has been the center of the pupils' life for the past twelve years.

Through Christ they can learn self mastery and so exercise the will power that they can always conquer the vicissitudes of life. "'He that overcometh shall inherit all things.'"

Rev. Main in simple and concise words, briefly and very earnestly pointed out the vacant thrones to be gained by the young people just starting out in life.

The entire evening was not one of those drawn out programs that have been associated with baccalaureate services of the past, but was short and held the attention. The Burbank trio, Mrs. Grace Lovejoy, violinist; Homer Davis, cello, and Gladys Schnoor, pianist, began the program with two very lovely numbers, "Allegro No. 6, Adagio Cantabile," (Hayden); "Scherzo,' Trio Op. 1 No. 1, (Beethoven).

The audience sang America Rev. L. G. Parker, pastor of the Christian church gave the invocation. The double quartet from the Burbank Choral club sang "Turn Ye Even to Me," with Mrs. Homer Jones singing the solo part.

Rev. S. F. Bicker of the Holiness church read the scriptures. After the sermon, Gladys Shelton Fisher sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." Rev. Thomas Stevenson of the Presbyterian church pronounced the benediction. Then everyone thought that church was dismissed as soon as the benediction was pronounced and they began to leave, not realizing that the Burbank trio was to play another very beautiful number, Allego Trio Op. 1 No. 1 (Beethoven), thereby losing one of the good things on the program.

IS BURIED AT GRAND VIEW

Funeral services were held Saturday for Myrtle Leona Rassmussen, and burial was made at Grand View cemetery. The little 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rassmussen died at the home of her parents, Thursday.

ONLY TWO BIRTHS REGISTERED IN TEN DAYS

The first week in June closed with only two birth certificates filed at the city clerk's office. Betty June Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Woods, was born June 2.

The other certificate registered was for baby Hosselkus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hosselkus, born June 5.

ARE MARRIED AT SWALL HOME

Miss Lucille Gumm and R. J. Humphries Are Wed

In one of the prettiest of June wedding ceremonies, Miss Lucille Gumm of Burbank and Robert Humphries of Los Angeles exchanged marriage vows at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Rev. Thomas Stevenson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, read the service. Only a small number of the closest relatives were invited to witness the ceremony, which was held at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. J. A. Swall, 918 Angeleno avenue.

The home was beautifully decorated in white carnations. A large white bell of flowers was suspended from the ceiling above the place where the young people stood.

The bride wore a white and black sport suit and hat. Her maid of honor, Miss King Rodgers of Santa Barbara, was gowned in a Copenhagen blue taffeta silk frock, with hat to match. H. W. Van Dusen of Los Angeles served as best man. Mr. Hall of Los Angeles, accompanied by Miss V. A. Pendleton, sang "O Promise Me."

A wedding breakfast was served at the Sunset Canyon Country club, immediately following the ceremony. Gold and white were the decorations used at the country club, in the living-room and for the table appointments. The most conspicuous bit of decorations was the lovely big wedding cake with a white bird perched above it holding white ribbons which passed through two golden wedding rings out to the edges of the table.

Mrs. Humphries came to Burbank about two years ago from Virginia. Mr. Humphries is a civil engineer for the Pacific Electric company. The young couple will make their home in Glendale.

DARTMOUTH CLASS OF 1873 TO HAVE REUNION

Rev. Cramer Receives Announcement of His Class

Rev. Thomas Cramer, 63 North Angeleno avenue, has received notice of the fiftieth annual reunion of his class which graduated from Dartmouth in 1873. Mr. Cramer is the only Dartmouth man of that year in Burbank, although he says there are about 18 living in Los Angeles.

The alumni will arrive at Hanover, New Hampshire, next Friday afternoon. Saturday morning there will be a meeting of alumni council. Class day exercises will be held in the afternoon.

Although the college is 154 years old, the oldest alumni living is Dr. J. W. Barstow, who graduated in the class of '46, which would make it his seventy-seventh class reunion this June, if there were any classmates to reunite, but he is the only one left.

An elder brother of Dr. Barstow graduated from Dartmouth in '42 and settled in California, where he lived to be over 80 years old.

Mr. Cramer says Charles Milham of Los Angeles, class of '06, is the secretary of the Dartmouth Men's association for Southern California.

TO ORGANIZE SCOUT COUNCIL

A meeting has been called for this evening at the Edison school to form a Girl Scout Council. The members will be permanent residents of Burbank. In this way it is hoped to put the Girl Scout organization on a more permanent basis than it has been.

Teachers now hold the offices in the troops and it is thought that if they should go at any time the troops might not continue in the work. With a council composed of residents, new officers could be appointed.

Another reason for taking this action at this time is the fact that the girls are ready to take the Merit Badge test, and a committee is needed to see to the awards.

The council will be a subdivision of the national council in New York.

CHEVROLET TO USE RADIO BALLOON

The Colburn-Knabenshue Radio Balloon Manufacturing company has secured a contract from the Chevrolet Motor company, located at Seventh and Central avenue, Los Angeles, for a radio balloon. The balloon is to be put up in the air every day from 12 noon to 10 o'clock at night, for 10 days. Searchlights will play on the balloon in the evening.

This balloon will take the place of the one that got away, which was put up by the Goodyear people for the company.

"Know thyself," says the adage. A man can find out quite a good deal about himself by running for office.

MANY ATTEND DINNER DANCE

The dinner dance at the Sunset Canyon Country club was largely attended Saturday evening. Among those who were giving special parties at that time were Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. R. M. Holland, Mrs. H. M. Thompson, Mrs. A. M. Woods and Mrs. T. A. McClung.

ONE BUILDING PERMIT FILED

Helten Keefe, 727 North Orange Grove avenue, was the only Burbank resident to apply for a building certificate Saturday. He will build a six-room dwelling and garage to cost $3,000.

Instead of stitching the fourth side of cushion covers, sew on a few patent fasteners. This will save time, trouble and wear and tear on the cover.

HOLD DRAWING OF LUCKY RANGE NUMBER

Elwood Gas Appliance Co. Visited by Huge Crowd Saturday

Showing that a wide interest has been aroused in gas ranges in Glendale and vicinity, 4000 tickets were in circulation in the drawing of the lucky number for the Occidental range, offered by the Elwood Gas Appliance company of 227 East Broadway, the drawing taking place Saturday night.

Miss N. Monomaque of 628 West Alexander, who held number 1826, proved to be the winner. A. R. Eastman, president of the Glendale State bank, conducted the drawing Saturday night. He requested five different ones in the audience to draw one number each, and these were placed in separate plain envelopes. Mr .Eastman then draw one of these, which proved to be No. 1826.

A very large number of people were present at the time of the drawing. Mrs. Elwood gave a short lecture on the merits of the Occidental gas range, following the drawing.

OSTEOPATHS TO HAVE CONVENTION

The annual state convention of the California Osteopathic association will be held at the Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, June 14, 15 and 16.

Clinics will be conducted for the benefit of the delegates at the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, in connection with the Los Angeles General hospital, June 11, 12 and 13. Leading educational men from different parts of the United States will address the convention. Dr. L. van H. Gerdine, formerly consulting neurologist of the Still-Hildreth sanitarium of Macon, Mo., and who has starteled the world with a record of the curing of 55 per cent of the cases of insanity during the past ten years, has accepted the presidency of the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons and will be in charge of the clinics at the college as well as address the convention.

It is expected that the local osteopaths will attend.

Reciprocity is the art of exchanging something you don't want for something that you do desire.

Local Babe Ruths Are Defeated by the Ocean Park Outfit

The Carriers' nine of the Glendale Daily Press would like to tell the Ocean Park baseball sharks that the score they made at the scuffle here Saturday, when the beach boys did the trick of a 9 to 1 count, is nothing more nor less than a fish story, but inasmuch as it actually happened, 9 innings of it, the local Babe Ruths have to admit it.

In the meantime they have declared war on the beach aggregation and have vowed to defeat heir opponents from the land of he ozone in the next encounter. n Saturday's battle, Charlie Smith laimed a husky curve in his pitching, and in a short time will be ble to strike out the best of them. Mahannah is developing as a catcher, but will find it necessary to improve on his peg to second.

The Ocean Park team presented a stern front, with the exception of the outfield, which was somewhat weak compared with the rest of the team. R. Kuhn' pitcher, and Simonton, catcher, helped to bring a winning score against every team played during the last season.

Next Saturday the Glendale Press team will travel to the Santa Monica high school grounds, where hey will again tangle with the Ocean Park aggregation, the game starting at 10 o'clock in the morning.

PURELY PERSONAL

Willard Learned and wife arrived Sunday from Indianapolis, where they had been attending the School of Missions the past two years. They will spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Learned of 1549 Glenwood road, and her parents, Rev. J. W. Utter and wife of Bellflower. They were accompanied on the homeward trip by Miss Grace Tedford, also a student, who stopped off with them till today when she went on to her home in Fresno. She will sail this fall to China, where she takes up the missionary work.

Mrs. Fred Wilson of St. Louis, Mo., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mize, Sunday and today, and had the opportunity last evening of hearing her former pastor, Rev. Clifford A. Cole, preach.

Glendale friends of Miss Eva Daniels have received word from her at Boston, Mass., where she is spending the summer visiting relatives, stating that she is having a wonderful time.

Mrs. Cliff Wykoff of 209 South Everett starts tomorrow for the old home in Des Moines, Iowa, to spend the summer with relatives.

GROSSMAN-MILLER FURNITURE CO. TO SELL OUT

Announces Expiration of Lease; Special Values in Furniture

Due to the fact that his lease expires in July, I. Grossman, of the Grossman-Miller Furniture company, at California and Brand boulevard, announceds that a closing out sale is offered to the people of Glendale.

Mr. Grossman offers special prices on furniture, linoleum, rugs, refrigerators, and general house furnishings. Prices have been placed at such a figure that Mr. Grossman hopes to dispose of his entire stock between now and the time of the lease's expiration.

DEBATE JUDGING PERCENTAGES TO BE REDUCED

At a meeting held Saturday of representatives of the various schools which have been enrolled in the Southern California Debating League, a decision was reached to cut out percentages in debate judging hereafter. The decision will be simply affirmative or negative, and the school getting two out of three votes will be adjudged the winner. At the close of the season the school which has won the largest number of decisions will be eligible to the championship.

It was also decided that hereafter in oratorical contests one set of judges will pass upon thought, composition and delivery.

DRAMA STUDENTS TO MEMORIZE ACTS

In place of an ordinary examination students in dramatic work at Glendale high under Mr. Brewser are being assigned one-act plays to memorize and deliver as a dramatic reading and upon their ability to interpret the different characters and their grasp of the theme their rating will be based. Two will probably be given at each class period and there will be general discussion of the themes.

Mr. Brewster adopted the plan experimentally and it is working out far better than he expected. There are 33 students in the two classes.
